Lest night was show night at the St. Elizabeth pera House, and a fine entertainment was given or the amusement of the 600 patients. It being he last but one of evening entertainments this the last but one of evening entertainments this season, the company was gotten up with the view of giving a most aitractive programme, and to make it a brillant close of the season. That the unfortunate people enjoyed the several numbers was only too evident from the great hilarity displayed and the liberal applause bestowed. Miss Eva Mills, the great attraction, was of course the term of the evening, and as usual more than pleased. Mr. George D. Scott gave two songs, One, John Riley's Always Dry," was perfectly immense, and received an encore. Dr. J. I. Lewis, in a humorous selection, rendered as only he can, caused more than one person's sides to ache. Mrs. E. H. Fadel, y's fine contraito voice was never heard to bester advantage. Dave Bangs read in his usual acceptable manner. The fancy dances by Misses Katle Waish and Rifs Haucock were given in perfect manner, and deserve special mention, Messrs, Russel, Colegrove, and Sullivan rendered a double-act negres sketch, and elicited unbounded applause. Miss MacGill, a new aspirant for vocal honors, rendered a soo in a very finished manner. The econd part, under the direction of Miss Belle Elliott, consisted of a farce, "A Love of a Bonner, in which Misses Katle Waish, Annie Burson, Statia Boyle, Rifa Hancock, Gracie Husted, and Stella Throckmorton enacted the principal characters. It was given it a manner decidedly more acceptable than our older amateurs ever think of doing. T. J. Broom and Fan Drill.

The ladies of the Philharmonic Society have been compelled by the urgent requests of those who were unable to attend the broom and lan drill last week, and also those who did witness this novel entertainment, and who desired to again see the graceful evolutions of the young ladies who participated in it, to announce a repetition, which will take place this evening at Masonic Tumple. Both the broom and fan brigades have been in constant rehearsal since their first exhibition, and even greater precision in their movements may be expected. The ladies who have had this unique affair in charge deserve the highest praise for their efforts, and it is believed that the gratifying success which attended their entertainment will be supplemented by a crowded attendance this evening.

Famous

Six-Seat

Rockaway,

DRESS PLEATINGS,

MADE BY J. W. GOSLING,

(Factory and Repository, corner

Sixth and Sycamore streets,

Cincinnati,)

is a model of quiet comfort and elegance. It is roomy, luxurious, and being constructed upon the best principles to insure solidity and convenience, it is the acknowledged leading family carriage of the age. The Six-Page enger Rockaway is a prime favorite in the suburbs. Its oppearance denotes it a "pri-vate establishment" in contradistinction to the more flushy public equipages of the road. In manufacture, materials employed, finish, and ensemble, it is equal to the standard upon which the maker rests his reputation. J. W. Gosling's prices are the lowest consistent with highest perfection in construction.
